Hot Topics in February at the Library

#BlackHistoryMonth February is Black History Month, a time to recognize, celebrate, and honor the rich and diverse history, important contributions, and achievements of Black Americans. In February 2023, we celebrate Black History Month by hosting events at our branch libraries and by highlighting books, movies, music, and resources available through the library.

#LibraryLove February is a great time to show your library some love! Take a photo, sing a song, create art, or just tell us what you love about your free public library. Use the hashtag #SCLLove on social media so all can share.

#PatronPraise Library patrons love to tell us what they think. A Rohnert Park-Cotati patron told us: "The library is a constant source of companionship and knowledge, all for free. When I feel poor I remember I have the whole library at my fingertips, and I feel very wealthy."
