An Irish filmmaker intent on crafting what he calls a "cinematic toast to Ireland's culinary and drinks legacy" has found two of his subjects halfway around the world, in the vineyards of Northern California.

In "A Sip of Irish," now available to rent online, Ireland-based filmmaker Frank Mannion looks beyond the country's better-known exports – Guinness and whiskey – to celebrate "the achievements of the Irish diaspora," he said in an interview with The Press Democrat.

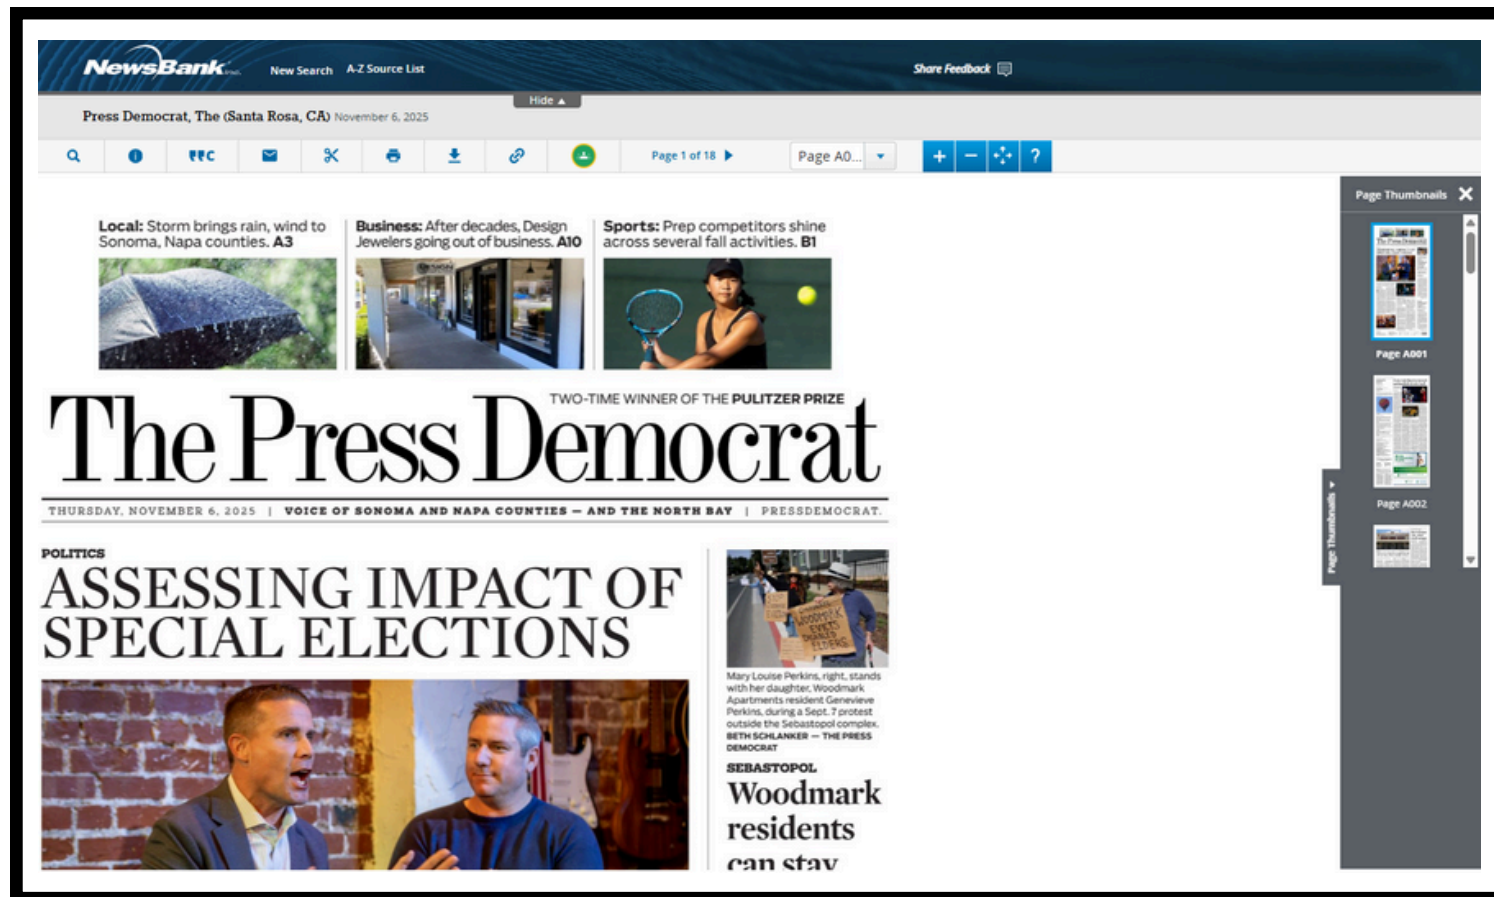

That search for the far-flung Irish spirit led him to two local winemakers with deep ancestral roots: Bo Barrett of Chateau Montelena Winery in Calistoga and Karen Francis DeGolia of Limerick Lane Cellars in Healdsburg.

"When I got in touch with Bo and Karen, luckily, they were enthusiastic about showcasing their Irish heritage," Mannion said.

The documentary revisits Chateau Montelena's storied past – the winery helped put Napa Valley on the global wine map when its Chardonnay won the 1976 Judgment of Paris blind tasting – and explores how the Barrett family celebrates its Irish identity. Among other things, the winery flies the Irish flag, hosts an annual St. Patrick's Day lunch and reserves a parking space "for Irish visitors."
